

Image courtesy of Serge Bertasius Photography at FreeDigitalPhotos.net

Image courtesy of stockimages at FreeDigitalPhotos.net

Parent-Based Prevention Research Study for Mothers with Eating Disorders

The Eating Disorders Research Program at Stanford University is recruiting mothers with a past or current eating disorder whose children are 1-5 years old for a parenting program research study.

This short-term, focused study program addresses parenting concerns and dilemmas, and is:

- Held at Stanford or Berkeley, according to participants' preference
- No cost
- Provides $100 payment per family for completing assessments

If you would like to learn more about this study, please contact us at shiris@stanford.edu or 650-497-4949