Do you want to participate in brain research?

We are trying to learn if anorexia is linked to changes in the brain that impact decision-making. By studying young people with and without anorexia, we can learn more about decision-making and brain activity. This could lead to better treatments for people with anorexia.

Individuals 14-18 years old are eligible. You DO NOT need to have anorexia to participate.

Once you join the study you will be asked to meet with the study team at UCSF Mission Bay 1 or 2 times.

During your first visit, you will:

- Have a short interview with the study team.
- Complete two computer tasks and other questionnaires.

You will be assigned to a study group at random. People in Group 1 will have an MRI (painless brain scan) in a second visit, one week later. People in Group 2 will not have an MRI.

You can receive a $150 gift card for taking part in the study.

Want to learn more? Contact the study team or scan the QR code at:

Sasha Gorrell, PhD (415) 502-2716
Gorrell_Lab@ucsf.edu gorrelllab.ucsf.edu